To each of you who have chosen to purchase this book:

May this volume start you on a new path of collecting.

Collecting both for fun and profiting from the knowledge being made available to you.

Good Collecting,

Introduction

Volume 3 contains some interesting material from several dealers regarding large cent material. It contains information from Chesley J. Allen's 94 page listing of numbers by Hays, Doughty and Andrews. It also includes Walter Webb's fixed price list of 1937 which contains Dr. McGirk & Frank D. Andrew's collection of large cents.

Recognizing that a listing of items alone is bare bones at best, I asked several experts in their fields to make their intellectual contributions for you, the collector or researcher, to hopefully stimulate your interest in fixed price lists — an overlooked area of collecting.

- Martin Gengerke has written an insightful analysis of what value the fixed price lists of the 1930's contained for the collectors of their day.
- Pete Smith wrote his usual thorough review of the importance of these lists to the copper collector of today.
- Ken Lowe contributed an excellent overview from a literature dealer's perspective of what the 1930's achieved in collectable fixed price lists.
- 4. Wayne Anderson of Minneapolis answered the call from Volume 2 which asked for others to contribute to this volume. Wayne contributed with his analysis of Wayte Raymond's "Standard Catalogue of United States Coins & Currency" books. I would have overlooked this area — Thanks Wayne.

Volume 4 covering 1940-1949 time period has been typeset and will be produced after the first of the year. Anyone willing to contribute an article or analysis of this period is welcome to do so.

Equally important is the acknowledgement page which recognizes those people who have consistently helped in the past volumes as well as in this volume. Their contributions made this a fuller volume than it would have been without their help.

Good Collecting,

Remy

Introduction

The 1930's represented a watershed period in the history of American numismatics caused by two major events—one causing the end of an era, the other a rebirth.

The Great Depression was responsible for bringing the end to a decade of great historical numismatic importance highlighted by the various Chapman brothers' sales including the legendary Jenks Collection in 1921, the Beckwith large cent sale in 1923, and the Hunter sale in 1925. In 1926 S.H. Chapman produced his revised work on 1794 large cents. In 1925 Newcomb released his book on the large cents of 1801 to 1803. Mehl's 1928 fixed price list of the French Collection of large cents remains one of the most important FPLs ever. Mehl also reprinted Andrews on large cents (1924) and Haseltine's Type Table (1927). Elder's 1921 Gehring sale brought the attention to U.S. gold coinage by mintmark. Beistle's 1929 work on half dollars focused renewed attention on the half dollar series. In Europe, the famous Ars Classica sales highlighted ancient and modern European numismatics. Thus, the post war decade represented one of the golden eras for numismatics in America.

However, the depression years of the 1930's crippled numismatics, as it did other core aspects of the economy. Also affecting the situation was the turmoil caused by government restricting private ownership of gold in 1933. The 30's found the Chapmans no longer in business. Advertisers severely cut back the quantity of their advertising in The Numismatist. Mehl only conducted 12 auctions from from 1931 to 1939—and none for a two year period between April 1934 and June 1936. Long time dealers and advertisers dropped out of the market. Mehl with his saturation advertising still continued as a major factor in the marketplace. Elder offered regular sales, few though with the importance and impact of his earlier efforts. Bluestone and Bolender had not yet achieved the significance they would late.

However, Wayte Raymond breathed new numismatic life into the decade. He was the editor of the Coin Collecton Journal which began in 1934. Also beginning in 1934 (dated 1935) was the superb annual Standard Catalogue of United States Coins, along with a variety of individual premium lists. Further, Raymond advanced significantly the collecting of foreign coins beginning in 1937 with the release of a new standard catalogue, Coins of the World. Additionally, Raymond issued auction catalogues under his own name, and with Macallister, for J.C. Morgenthau.

However, the acceleration of the issuance of commemorative half dollars during the early and mid 1930s brought a new attention to numismatics, largely from people previously not involved with coin collecting. Also attention was drawn back to numismatics with the mint resuming production of proof sets in 1936. Further, 1934 found dealers beginning to purchase quantities of rolls of new coinage from banks. New membership in the American Numismatic Association served as an indicator of renewed numismatic interest. From the start of the century, new members of the ANA joined at the rate of about 200 a year, finding the new members having been assigned ANA numbers through 4600 by the end of 1934. However, by January 1939 membership number 7209 had been assigned (to Al C. Overton), a 50 percent increase in membership numbers in only four years.

The renewed interest by the public found new, young entrepreneurs and numismatists entering the marketplace—figures and companies that would mold American numismatics for the next generation: Stack's, New Netherlands, Lee Hewitt, Maurice Gould, John Ford, and Abe Kosoff, among others.

The new players on the scene found that the fixed price list was the most practical method for merchandising to the new mass market. These new collectors were not classical numismatists. Rather, they were feverishly seeking the seemingly infinite number of new commemoratives, and to a lesser degree the new proof sets—items which the dealers could quickly supply in quantities.

Also, the popularity of the National Coin Albums and the Whitman "Penny" Boards further revolutionized the hobby. Collectors of modest means searched for the dates of generally low-priced coins to fill in the holes in their holders. Again, the fixed price list was the perfect sales medium to reach these collectors.

One additional element completed the equation. Lee Hewitt's Namismatic Scrapbook was not only a marvelous repository of information for the collector, but it also contained many ads offering those fixed price lists which were so important to the collectors at large.

So the end of the decade found American numismatics changed and perhaps democratized as never before. The new dealers (a particularly appropriate term for the period), who later became giants, generally entered the numismatic marketplace by issuing fixed price lists.

These early lists of Stack's, New Netherlands, Lee Hewitt, and their brethren have become decidedly scarce for a variety of reasons. Some were issued in decidedly limited numbers. Few were saved as these new collectors did not regard these lists as having any lasting value. Also, World War II found great quatities of "non-essential" paper being recycled, with a large number of former collectors having other, more critical matters concerning them.

Thus, while the fixed price list of the 1930's serves as a most fascinating record of American numismatic history, few have been saved in any quantity. Those which Remy has recorded in this volume represent years of collecting and searching. It would be difficult to overestimate the importance of, and numismatics' debt to, Remy's efforts in researching, cataloguing, and producing these volumes. Accompanying the superb efforts of John Adams and Martin Gengerke who have created standard references for the American numismiatic auction catalogue, Remy's singular efforts in creating the various volumes providing a definitive, permanent record of fixed price lists and "Premium Paid For" itsis have both filled a great numismatic void, and have systematized valuable and previously unavailable information for generations of researchers and collectors to come.

Foreword

While few of us would dispute the claim that Numismatics can be immensely pleasurable and rewarding, being highly specialized can certainly have drawbacks. In writing for Remy's previous editions, the limited impact of Fixed Price Lists in the Paper Money field was all too evident. The roles of Haseltine in Confederate Currency and Frossard and the Chapmans in Fractional Currency should not be minimized, yet the entire field of Paper Money was still in its infancy, even for the ensuing decades.

With Remy's latest edition, all that changes. Remy's practice of covering not just the price lists issued within a particular decade, but instead covering the entire span of existence of each firm starting in that decade is of tremendous importance, as the 1930's saw the beginnings of some of the most important and influential numismatists and firms of the modern era.

Certainly one of the most notable Paper Money dealers of the last half century has to be Nebraska dealer Aubrey Bebee. Collectors of the 1930's had little inkling of the importance he would later play in U.S. Paper Money, as his business in the early years was built solidly on "traditional" numismatics — U.S. Coins and the hot new Commemorative issues of the period. Yet Bebee was to issue in the 1950's what was to remain for decades the most important Fixed Price List ever seen in the field — the listing of the collection of James M. Wade. Wade was fortunate enough to have the cooperation of FCC. Boyd (himself a legend in the field and publisher of Valentines's work on Fractional Currency), through whom we were able to acquire notes from the legendary collection of Col. E.H.R. Green. The Wade Collection was one of the most important ever formed, and contained numerous Unique or Rarity-8 notes, as well as double denomination notes, sheets and low serial numbers. A few of the many highlights include the early countersigned Silver Certificates (through the $100.00), and the Serial Number 1 $50.00 Treasury Note.

Business must have been a bit slow at the time, for the majority of Wade's notes went to two sources, both to remain hidden for over thirty years! First, a significant number of notes didn't sell, and became the cornerstone of the Bebee Collection, which the Bebee's (in their typically generous style) donated to the American Numismatic Association just a few years ago. The other large portion of the collection went through the hands of Charles Wormser of New Netherlands, not to be seen again until 1989, when the most important notes appeared in a Fixed Price List of Stack's.

New Netherlands Coin Company (Moritz and Charles Wormser and David Bullowa, later Charles Wormser and John Ford) also deserves special mention here. Due to their close association with Fred Boyd, New Netherlands was able to quietly handle many of the rarest notes in existence, though little of it appeared in their price lists — their house publication, "Numisma." With John Ford and Walter Breen, much research was done in paper money, some important collections were quietly built, and others were quietly disposed of, all in the low-key style for which they became famous, a style later copied successfully by Lester Merkin.

The firm of Stack's, like New Netherlands, built its foundation on coins rather than paper money. For decades the firm did little with paper money publicly, preferring to build major collections (like Josiah Lilly's Gold Coin and Fractional Currency collection) privately. Some of their price lists did, of course, list paper money - even some important notes like the "D-5-18-63" Fractional essays - but it wasn't until recent years that we see any extensive offering. Early in 1989 we saw the Fixed Price List of a major part of the Wade Collection, as mentioned above. This list had numerous important Wade notes, notably the countersigned Silver Certificates, plus other important rarities, including extremely rare Demand Notes and National Gold Bank Notes (through the $100.00). The end of 1989 gave us their Fixed Price List of colonial coins and Paper Money — the most extensive and high grade offering of Colonial Currency at fixed prices ever seen.

Many other firms that began in the 1930's were also important in Paper Money — French's, with their discovery of a hoard of uncut sheets of Poatage Currency; Barney Bluestone, who is better remembered for his auctions of the Grinnel Collection, but whose Fixed Price Lists contain numerous hidden jewels; and, of course, D.C. Wismer. Author of the first comprehensive treatment of Obsolete Currency (published in "The Numismatist"), Wismer formed a tremendous collection and issued his own Fixed Price Lists.

Though the decades to come will have their dedicated Paper Money specialists and a veritable flood of Fixed Price Lists of Paper Money, the decade of the 1930's was the first to give birth to firms that still influence our field today. The Fixed Price List form of merchandising, as opposed to auctions, begins to come to the forefront in Paper Money in the 1930's and as we'll see later, continues to have an even greater impact in the future. We leave it to Remy's next edition(s?) to bring us up to date in this important and too long neglected area.

Fixed Price Lists Offer Insight Into Numismatics 1930-39

Pete Smith

Remy Bourne's two previous books have covered fixed price lists and premium lists up to 1900 in Volume I and from 1900 to 1929 in Volume II. He has asked me again to review the lists from the 1930's from the perspective of a copper collector and researcher.

The material offered in fixed price lists can fit several different categories. I have seen examples of these:

- Ficticious: Offers to buy coins that are not available in the market or offers to sell coins not currently in stock.
- Generic: A description/grade/price that may represent multiple coins in stock or coins that could easily be acquired from other dealers to fill orders.
- Legitimate collection: The French, Pearl, or Adams collections are well known sales of copper by FPL. Some legitimate collections may have been assembled by the dealers.
- 4. Remainders: Coins left unsold from a previous auction.
- Dealer's Stock: These include descriptions of specific coins attributed by variety. They are common in the 1989 market but less frequently seen before 1939.
- Dealer Leftovers: What remains of dealers stock or auction lots after all the rarity, quality, and value has been sold off.

The French collection FPL of 1929 was an incredible sale. I described it in my review of FPL from that era. I found another sale that is interesting in comparison. An undated (about 1931) fixed price list from Chesley J. Allen of Plainfield, New Jersey, offered 70 Connecticut cents, 75 New Jersey cents attributed by Maris numbers, 106 half cents attributed by Gilbert and 1177 large cents. The large cents were attributed by Hays (1794), Doughty (1795), Gilbert (1796), Doughty (1797-1814) and Andrews (1816-1857). The quantity was unusual. It is the largest offering of attributed large cents I can recall.

Dealers have been known to use a phrase like "the best I have ever seen". That may tell you something about the quality of the coin or it may tell more about the lack of experience for the dealer. Keep that in mind when I say that I had never heard of Chesley Allen. Either he was an obscure dealer with no major place in numismatic history, or I have my head in the sand.

In my attempt to date this list I looked to see what was the latest coin offered. The cent list went through 1931. My mind wandered for a moment from the big cents as I reviewed prices for small cents. The list offered Indian Head cents "In Brilliant Mint State". Most cents from 1880 through 1908 were priced at 15 or 20 cents each. Proofs from 1880 through 1908 were priced at 15 or 20 cents each. Proofs from the same years were 40 or 50 cents each. These were some of the prices for uncirculated Lincoln cents: 1909 .15; 1909 VDB .15; 19098. 25; 1908 VDB .25; 1914 1.00; 1914S 1.65; 1914D 1.25; 1931 .05; 1931S .15; and 1931D .15. I found the prices interesting but not worth extensive discussion here.

The Connecticut cents were priced in the $.25 to $2.50 range. Most New Jersey cents were priced $.50 to $4.00. A few rare varieties were offered at prices that for the time represented substantial premiums. A 1787 Maris 35-W R-6 was offered in Fine for $25.00.

The offering of half cents indicated that coins of 1831, 1836, and 1840-49 were very rare, and none were offered. An 1803 Gilbert 4 (B2 C2) then described as R-7 was $5.00 in Fine. An 1805 Gilbert 3 (B3 C3) also an R-7 at the time was the same grade and price. Uncirculated R-1 varieties cost $1.00 to $3.00.

The federal cents started slow with no 1793's and few significant 1794's. Of 19 1794's listed, six were Hays 43 (S-22). Although 218 early cents were offered many were duplicates of common varieties. An interesting year was 1813 with 10 examples of D221 (S-292) offered and four examples of D222 (S-293). What is really interesting is that five examples of D-223 were offered. This mule with obverse of D221 and reverse of D222 was "ide-listed" by Clapp in 1934. What were the coins offered by Allen?

There were 530 middle date cents listed and described with Andrews numbers. Fortunately Andres numbers are tha same as Newcomb numbers as far as they go. There were no "not in Newcomb" varieties listed. Of the rarities that would have been attributed in 1931, I didn't find any offered in the Allen list.

Many uncirculated cents were offered at prices of $2.00 to $5.00. Higher prices were asked for some circulated varieties. Here are examples of those few coins priced over $10.00: 1817 A-7.5 VF $12.00; 1817 A-15 Unc $35.00; 1818 A-6 Unc $10.00; 1827 A-1 XF $10.00.

Late dates included 429 cents. Uncirculated prices range from $1.00 to $6.00. Coins from the early 1840's were as high as $6.00. Coins from the 1850's were priced under $2.50. Circulated coins were proportionately less.

The Allen list had an 1855 A-10 Proof offered at $8.50. The French Proof A-10 had been priced at $17.50. Allen also had an 1857 A-2 Proof at $5.00. The French A-2 Proof was $10.00.

The French pedigree allows us to trace coins from 1929 to the present. I have not been able to trace any coins to Allen. It would be interesting to know how coins from both lists would appear in side by side comparison today. A few price comarisons between the 1929 French (F) and 1931 Allen (A) sales follow. All are for uncirculated coins. 1816 A-2 F=87.50 A=$2.25, 1818 A-10 F=$2.25 A=$1.50; 1824

A-2 F-$45 Λ =$7.50; 1833 A-6 F=$17.50 Λ =$5.00; 1839 A-2 F-$12.00 A-$3.00; 1841 A-4 F-$4.50 Λ -$6.50; 1849 A-6 F-$3.00 Λ =$1.50. Unfortunately such price comparisons are meaningless. The French coins were offered at pre-depression prices. By 1931 the depression had driven prices down.

Another major difference between the two sales must be recognized. The French coins represent a methodically formed collection. The Allen coins appear to be nothing more than dealers stock including duplicates in several grades.

Another FPL of the era tells a different numismatic story. Stack's (I have heard of Stack's) issued a 1939 FPL with a typical generic listing of large cents. It also included a section labeled "For the U.S. Large Cent Specialist." Here are a few early date cents from the list:

1793	Crosby 13L	(S-14)	Fine	$75
1794	Hays 4	(S-17)	Fine	$15
1794	Hays 8	(S-48)	Good	$25
1794	Hays 25	(S-27)	Very Fine	$20
1794	Hays 27	(S-33)	Very Good	$15
1794	Hays 29	(S-35)	Good	$15
1794	Hays 55	(S-68)	Fine	$15
1795	Not in D	(S-73)	Good	$ 5
1796	Not in G	(S-118)	VF-XF	$75
1797	Doughty 97	(S-143)	Very Good	$15
1798	Clapp 7	(S-149)	Good	$15
1798	Clapp 14	(S-156)	Good	$ 5	(Two examples)
1798	Clapp 40	(S-180)	Good	$10	` '
1801	Newcomb 4	(S-218)	Very Fine	$35
1802	Newcomb 5	(S-229)	Very Fine	$25
1802	Newcomb 12	(S-234)	Fine	$10
1803	Newcomb 20	(S-262)	Very Fine	$25
1803	Newcomb 23	(S-264)	AG	$10

I wondered where these coins may have come from. It occurred to me to pull out my catalog of Stack's auction from October, 1938. The sale was named for consignors Otero, Rattenberg, and Cibulski. Old time collectors recognize that the large cent section was consigned by William H. Sheldon.

Many coins from the FPL had descriptions that were identical to descriptions from the previous auction. Of 133 middle date cents listed in the 1938 auction, 75 remained for the 1939 FPL. Of 27 late dates listed, 16 remained. The early dates included some coins from the auction and others from other sources. The auction had 407 lots of early cents. The FPL had 357 lots. I would estimate from the descriptions that at least 100 were remainders.

It is necessary to look at both the October, 1938 auction and the 1939 FPL to learn the truth about the coins. Obviously many coins did not sell at auction and were offered later in the FPL, 50 years later the large cent market is quite different. Collectors who participated in the Robinson or Matthews collection sales saw strong prices for both rarities and more common varieties in lower grades. It might be astonishing to realize that 50 years earlier some coins from Sheldon's collection were offered without finding a single buyer.

Fixed price lists can indicate pricing levels for the period. They also show what was considered important to dealers and collectors of the time. Even if the coins cannot be traced, it may be fun to speculate about the hands that have held the coins prior to the list and the owners who have cared for them since the list. Perhaps one of the non-pedigreed coins in your collection came from one of these old fixed price lists.

Fixed Price Lists of the 1930's Show Changes in the Market

Pete Smith

Over the past year I have reviewed Remy Bourne's collection of fixed price lists dating back to 1859. My review has now gotten as far as the 1930's. I detect what I see as a change in the market that is reflected in material offered in fixed price lists.

In the 1920's Max Mehl made the transition from selling coins to promoting coins. In the 1930's this became more common among other dealers. The era also saw a proliferation of non-numismatic items created for sale to collectors.

Books on numismatic topics date back long before this era. However, in the 1930's there appears to be a change in the approach for some numismatic books. Books of this era included prices. Previously dealers were producing buying or "Premium" lists with coin prices. Now the book format gave credability to those prices and could be perceived as a standard.

Wayte Raymond produced a number of books on numismatic topics including The United States Copper Coins (1931); Standard Catalogue of United States Coins and Currency (1934); Ancient Coins Greek and Roman and Byzantine Guide and Price List (1936); The Coins and Tokens of Canada (1937); The Silver Dollars of North and South America (1939). Raymond would continue to publish additional titles into the 1940's. He also published important works by other authors. These all would become standard references.

Raymond also produced holders that could be used for coin collections. These were offered in the FPL of many dealers. Coin Collector Boards with a blue suede finish were available at $.40 each. The size was 11 x 14 and more than 20 different titles were produced. The National Coin Album had pages 7.5 x 14. Transparent celluloid slides covered each row of coins. There were 32 titles available at $1.15 each. The National Coin Album Binder holding five pages could be ordered for $2.00.

Other dealers offered additional types of holders, coin envelopes and coin cabinets. One strong promoter of numismatic supplies was the Tatham Stamp & Coin Co. of Springfield, MA. They promoted Tasco coin tissue, Tasco coin lacquer, and Tasco coin tarnish solvent. They also offered Coin Collectors Personal Stationary for numismatic correspondence and a mailing holder for four half dollars at $12 each.

James P. Randall was another dealer who offered an extensive variety of coin supplies. One item was the Lifetime Coin Box to hold 2 x 2 envelopes. It was described as "Sturdy half hard cold rolled steel, macadam plated and rust proof." The word "Macadam" is used to describe roads made with small crushed stones. How it was used to plate steel is unknown.

The fixed price lists published by Tatham and Randall included typical price lists of coins. However as much as half the printed space promoted other items. Tatham offered sets of items that appear to have been produced just for collectors. They had a set of 33 presidential medals available in aluminum or goldine for $5.00 a set. They also promoted a set of 12 zodiac coins for $1.00. They were decribed as "stuck in brilliant goldene and lacquered to prevent tarnishing."

Tatham offered numismatic novelties. One could buy a "Lucky Penny Good Luck Coin" for $.15 or a lucky pocket piece, and encased cent, for $.10. They also offered "stage money" at $.80 for 100 assorted notes.

Tatham offered a variety of "California Gold" items. These pieces cost $.26 for a quarter dollar size and $.52 for a half dollar size piece. Why they were priced slightly over face value is a mystery. They were available in either round or octagon shape. Jewelery made from California gold was also available. A "Souvenir Gold Coin Scarf Pin" was $.75. A brooch with three coins was $1.25.

Another novelty item was a coin inside a small glass jug with a miniature cork. In his FPL, Randall called this, "The keenest numismatic novelty ever offered to collectors." A jug with an Indian Head Cent or Lincoln Head Cent cost $.25. A jug with a Jefferson Nickel cost $.30.

Tatham offered package deals on coins. The packages were described as "packed in a strikingly attractive multi-colored carton." One could order the Treasure Chest Coin Collection of 35 foreign coins for $1.00; the Buccaneer Coin Collection of 10 coins 50 to 150 years old for $1.00; or the Buried Treasure Coin Mixture of 300 coins for $5,00.

In addition to novelty items, Tatham offered a service to customers. If you submitted an ancient coin to them, their staff would classify it for you. The cost of this service was $.75 plus return postage.

Books told people what to collect and what price to pay. The scope of a collection was determined by the number of holes in a commercial holder. Some dealers were selling prepackaged collections. Other dealers were producing items for sale to collectors.

The change is subtle and perhaps overstated here. Most dealers continued to sell coins without all the peripheral material. However, the material offered in fixed price lists seems to show a change in attitude of some dealers. They were no longer in business only to service the needs and wishes of the customers. They were more likely to be leading the customers and telling them what to collect.

The Standard Catalogue

Mr. Wayte Raymond introduced his Standard Catalogue of United States Coins & Currency on September 10th, 1934. His catalogue became the "bible" of the entire field or the standard reference for dealers and collectors.

A closer look at the standard catalogue reveals the fact that it is a fixed price list as well as a wonderful educational tool. The 1935 first edition gives the prices for United States Coins and Currency at which most of them may have been purchased from the publisher. The catalogue contained nearly seven hundred illustrations in 1935 and 1936, eight hundred in 1937, and nine hundred illustrations in 1938. The catalogue continued to be a fixed price list through 1938 and price changes were issued for individual coins by separate lists.

The 1939 edition of the Standard Catalogue gives the average valuation for United States Coins and Currency among collectors and dealers with over one thousand illustrations, thus becoming the standard reference catalogue for the next twenty years. It is a handsome, multi-colored series with additions in content from one year to the next. The content is interesting and informative making the catalogues enjoyable to collect. Only the first edition is difficult to obtain.

It has been said that Mr. Wayte Raymond was primarily interested in educating collectors as he promoted numismantics. As I review his various works I believe that the statement is true as did his many famous numismatist contributors. I believe that is is also fitting to say that Mr. Remy Bourne is to be complimented for continuing the educational process by continuing his wonderful works.

(in no particular order)

Ken Lowe

For his insight, analysis, and explanation of the production of fixed price lists and premium paid lists for the 1930's era.

Dan Hamelburg

For his continuing help in providing many dealer's lists. Many of these lists would not be in the book if it had not been for Dan's sharing of his collection over the past 3 volumes.

Martin Gengerke

Thanks to Martin's efforts and time to produce writings which help paper money collectors focus on what is and is not improtant in this area.

Pete Smith

Likewise, Pete's efforts and time in writing an analysis for these three volumes which has unearthed many facts to enrich the E.A.C. members who have used these volumes as a tool for further research.

Wayne Anderson

Answered my call in Volume 2 by sharing and writing as a new contributor to broaden the interest in this endeavor.

Armand Champa

For his usual enthusiasm and "Sharing the Hunt" to track down the common as well as the uncommon items in these pages.

John Bergman

It's nice to know that John will always "answer the call" to share what is needed when a request is made of him as he did again in this volume.

Scott Rubin

For his continuous support to "fill in the gaps" of material missing in other collections.

35¢ Subscription

This Fall Wayte Raymond will publish the 1944 Standard Coin Catalog. I have received information from New York that there will be a 205 general rise on indian head cents; also all proofs and many of the series will have a sharp increase, so the next few months will be a good time to fill in your sets and save at the same time. A good deal of my material never reaches these price lists because I am constantly filling want lists, so it will be to your advantage to seed your wants along so that I may have a record in my files.

· LARGE CENTS & HALF CENTS of the C. DAVID PIERCE COLLECTION AT FIXED PRICES

It is our privilege to offer for sale at fixed prices the remarkably choice collection of large cents and half cents formed by Mr. C. David Pierce. Mr. Pierce spared neither time nor money in assembling the finest possible collection of large cents and half cents that he could during the years in which he diligently searched for gems. We are proud to have had the honor of aiding Mr. Pierce in assembling his collection and are humbly appreciative of the confidence placed in us by Mr. Pierce in turning over his "pet collection" to us.

Mr. Pierce turned over to us his collection of duplicates last fall. These were cataloged in a special sale in November of 1944 and brought $51,522,30.

Terms of Sale.

All price are net. Remittance with order in all cases by any means convenient to you. Orders of 2.00 or more are shipped postpaid and insured. On smaller orders please add 25c for handling. On your instructions faster shipments will be made at your expense. Three days inspections of all mail order purchases allowed and if found unsatisfactory, may be returned for full refund. If two or more coins are purchased as a lot they may be returned as a lot only. All returned coins, and containers if any, must be in the original condition.

CONDITION. 1 grads as follows: 6 cod (0), Very good (7 g), Fine (F), Very fine (F) and Extremely fine (8) for circulated coins. Uncirculated and proof (P) coins are described as brilliant (B) when they possess mint luster. Almost uncirculated (Ab) are in all probability uncirculated coins which have been carelessly handled. Two grades are used (7 F) are when the obverse and reverse are not the same.

DESCRIPTIONS. As many coins have the coat of arms of their respective countries on the reverse, this may be presumed to be the case unless it is described. The mint mark when important follows the date.

	5-18		1938	1000+	238		1939 Edition. Pattern Coins and Commemorative Coins added to the catalogue. No longer distributed by Scott Stamp and Coin Company. Alfred Z. Reed added as Associate Editor and Contributor. Wood, Grinnell and Freeman eliminated. No longer a fixed price list. The catalogue now states the following: "Giving the average valuations among Collectors and Dealers."
							Eighteen editions were published in total. Changes in content were made over the years to include: Hawaiin Coins, Phillipine Islands coins, Coins of Puerto Rico and the Danish West Indies, Early Mint Issues, Washington Pieces, Restrikes, Mint Reports and General Information.
							Currency was eliminated beginning with the 1940 edition and published as a separate book.

Important notice

After many years on 46th Street in the heart of midtown New York, we have suddenly realized that our neighbors are changing over to industrial and manufacturing industries.

In the many years gone by, we have endeavored to keep pace with the changing of our great city, known and respected as the "COIN CAPITOL OF THE WORLD." It is now our pleasure to announce the removal of our store and offices to 57th Street, the new hub of retail business in midtown New York, and the centre of the fine art and auction galleries. We take our place amongst such names as Tiffany, Steinway Pianos, Carnegie Hall, to mention just a few of our neighbors.

Our New Home and Address now is

123 WEST 57th STREET

New York, 19, N. Y.

Phone: JUdson 2-2580

Remember: Only the address will change. Not our service nor our intention to satisfy you, the collector.

from Walter F. Webb, Brighton Sta, Rochester, N Y

I attended the A.V.A.convention at Cleveland, and picked up 7 few good things which I will mention in this bulletin. First extention was less than 800 out of not 3,000 members, largely the effect of the standard of the sta LITHIAMA exhibit, covered a great variety of primative money including amber, which was used as a medium of exchange 3,000 years ago. The artist for the Lincoln cents we are now using was a Lithuanian, and several medals were exhibited of his work.

CHINESE curious money, many kinds, such as bullets, wire, metal hats, razors and a host of others. I was told they were selling a set of 20 different kinds of rezor money at the world fair for a small sum. They are of course of modern manufactore.

affilea, many exhibits of curious forms of money used by the natives of different colonies. The Space money of Batoms, 36 will buy a slave or a wife, whichever you most need. Many kinds of shells are used in the form of ornaments or attings.

POLMD of he exhibit of aliver and copper pieces by an attorney those amoestore come from that downtry. BISSIA, of the lot of large coppers, covering fully 150 pieces none of which are often seen these days of the NNW DEAL Sewersl nice Platinum pieces, made when that metal was much cheaper than and of the contract of and are now quite rare.

ALASKA. The largest coin in the world comes from this far north country. It was owned by the chief of the Tingat tribe. A piece of copper about 18" by 56", and about 1/3" thick. Its value was 5.000 blankets at 50 cts each, a very nice piece of mork.

was B,000 blankets at 69 cts each, A very nice piece of work.

MEDALS

For Sale By

WALTER F. WEBB

202 WESTMINSTER ROAD, ROCHESTER, N. Y.

This is the first of a series of offerings in fine medals. I hope to have enough material sent in to sell, so that further lists may be issued frequently. My auction lists which have appeared most every month for several years, will continue to offer a great variety of Numismattic material. Collections are constantly sent me for disposal to the best possible advantage. I started shipping fine specimens to collectors in 1881, and am now selling the third generation of some of the families who dealt with me at that time. Do not send any money with order. I prefer you see precess before paying.
